IPEPS participants:

"The interactive sessions are useful to increase speaking skills, the ability to work in groups and to get to know each other."

"The different backgrounds of the students allows to approach every topic from different perspectives, enhancing its understanding."

Areas

- Fiscal, economic and monetary policy
- Financial markets and institutions
- Energy and climate change
- Labour mobility and migration
- Institutions and policy-making

"Getting exposed to topics I don't know so well is both challenging and rewarding. It also helps to truly understand the complexity of the EU and how different areas are interlinked."

- IPEPS participant

Overview

An initiative of the CEPS Academy, the Integrated Programme in European Policy Studies (IPEPS) complements master's degree programmes in universities across Europe. It provides practical content and policy-oriented training, drawing from CEPS' extensive experience as a prominent European think tank.

Advanced Degree Module on EU Policies (June - July 2018)

- 7-week course for students enrolled in MA programmes
- Lectures by experts and policy-makers
- Case studies and role-playing
- Visits to EU institutions
- CV and job interview coaching

Objectives

- To provide in-depth learning and critical thinking on real-life policy issues
- To understand EU policies and the policy-making process
- To promote the creation of networks and a sense of community among students coming from different European countries

Benefits

- Deepen understanding of EU policy
- Learn from experienced practitioners
- Observe the EU policy-making process from within
- Meet other inspiring students from across Europe
- Earn ECTS credits
